BAYSHORE CITY COUNCIL MAKES FINAL PURCHASE NEGOTIATIONS FOR COMMUNITY WATER SYSTEM

CITIZENS WILL VOTE TUESDAY ON AMENDMENTS

Propose To Elect Executive, Tax Collector, Treasurer, Coroner, Engineer and Recorder

San Mateo County citizens will vote, Tuesday of next week, on a proposed charter amendment which will change the offices of county executive, tax collector, treasurer, coroner, engineer and recorder from an appointive status to an elective one.

To declare their attitude toward the proposed charter changes the Board of Supervisors passed a resolution, Wednesday of this week, which stated in part:

1. That if the amendment to make the manager and five other officers elective carries, it will "wreck the charter" because the county executive "is the keystone of the arch of the county charter."
2. That to make the county engineer elective would give him un-

COUNTY TRAFFIC SAFETY GROUP SET FIVE GOALS

Committee Held First Meet Late Last Week At San Mateo

Vowing that in rigid law enforcement lies their major objective, the newly formed San Mateo County Traffic Safety Commission held an initial organization meeting at San Mateo, Friday afternoon of last week, at which they mapped five goals for a program designed to stem the tide of death and injury on peninsula highways.

The five aims of the commissioners were outlined as follows:

1. Prevent loss of life.
2. Prevent broken bones and crushed bodies.
3. Prevent mental and financial distress, inflicted upon innocent persons involved in automobile accidents.
4. Accomplish the adoption and enforcement of improved methods of protection to the public from the reckless drivers of automobiles.
5. Cause the arrest and conviction of every person breaking the traffic laws in San Mateo County.

The commissioners set June 24 at 3 p. m. as time for their next session.

Building Boom In San Mateo County

The local home building program, which last year established a 10 year record, is gaining momentum, according to radio tribute paid the Peninsula by a Federal Housing Administration program Wednesday night of this week. The entire program of 15 minutes was devoted to San Mateo County and to local home building activity.

It was contended that since the FHA insured mortgage system was made available through approved private lending institutions little more than two years ago, it has helped 2475 San Mateo County families to home ownership with mortgages accepted for insurance in the amount of $12,618,342.

That both building activity and use of insured mortgage financing are increasing in consistent and substantial strides is shown by the fact that mortgages on peninsula homes accepted for insurance in the first four months of this year were greater than during the first six months of 1936, and double the volume for the entire year of 1935.

Henry Rights Are Sold For Sum Of $9500—Complete Civic Ownership

Bayshore City Council, Tuesday evening of this week, paved the way for a municipally owned water system in order to furnish the community with better water service, cheaper rates and greater fire protection.

Authorization was given to draw a $9500 warrant to purchase rights, property and equipment of the Henry Water System. It has been assured that the Railroad Commission will soon ratify the change of title.

The Henry system, formerly known as the Visitation Valley Water Works, will now, as city property, be named the City of Bayshore Water System.

Irene Mardecich was appointed secretary-treasurer of the water system and A. J. Taylor was appointed meter reader. Duties of the offices were assigned to them this week.

COUNTIES HOLD JOINT MEETING ON COAST ROAD

Organizations And Citizens Hope Project Complete By 1939 Fair

The move to obtain completion of the Ocean Shore boulevard from San Francisco to Carmel in time for opening of the 1939 World's Fair took impetus this week following an enthusiastic get together session of San Mateo and Santa Cruz County leaders in Santa Cruz, Saturday of last week.

Two "follow-up" meetings to lay down a definite program for pressing construction of the remaining links of the Coast highway, particularly the Zanon Hill and Tunitas-Pescadero sectors, are being arranged.

Saturday session at Santa Cruz was called by the joint committee representing the Western San Mateo County Progressive Association, the Santa Cruz Chamber of Commerce and civic clubs and associations.

"PETER PAN" CREATOR ILL

Sir James Barrie

Sir James Barrie, 77, world famous playwright and author, who is in a serious condition with bronchial pneumonia at his London home. Barrie is the author of the ever-famous play, "Peter Pan," which has rocketed more than one actress to stardom in the title role. The famed author refused to sell his first three volume novel for $500 and took up journalism. Some of the successful plays and novels written by Barrie are "Quality Street," "The Little Minister" and "The Admirable Crichton."

San Francisco's 1939 World Fair will have half a million square feet of exhibit space.

Vagabond Sketches

by DON AMES

A recent publication for German children is a glorified Mothergoose type of picture book, supervised by Hitler himself. One should say, "glorified" instead of glorified, however, for Dictator Hitler has made this book a vehicle to implant hate for the Jews in the minds of infant Germans.

The insidious nature of this publication is readily seen. In each rhyme the Jew is pictured as hideous and sensuous while the German is shown as a deified Teuton. This will lead to further persecution of the Jew and, automatically, to more race hatred in general. Hate is a wild thing to create. Once loosed it does not stop to reason nor question but destroys everything, even its creator.

SHORT STORY—When the voice of reason is silenced the rattle of machine guns begins.

TODAY'S EPIGRAM—Courage is the man, and a man without courage is dead. The trouble with the ordinary man is not lack of ability, intelligence, strength nor health. It is the lack of courage that comes from enthusiasm.

May Seek Estimate On Jaysee Unit

The building committee of the San Mateo Junior College Board, at a meeting this week, authorized Harry Thompson, Burlingame architect, to secure estimates on the proposed science building, first unit of the new junior college plant.

Based on three types of steel and reinforced concrete construction, the estimates will furnish the board with definite information as to whether sufficient money will be available to call for bids in the immediate future. The board will have approximately $100,000 available for the building at the end of the school year.

The estimates are expected to be received by the board before July 1.

SHELTER COVE BEAUTY SPOT DRAWS CROWD

George Lewis Offers Genuine Hospitality To All Visitors

The coastside of San Mateo County abounds with beautiful, rugged spots in which to spend a week end or a vacation. One of the finest of these is Shelter Cove and Point San Pedro.

This picturesque spot, often compared with Diamond Head and Waikiki beach in Honolulu, is the most westerly spot in San Mateo County. In reaching this gentle cove one drives toward the towering pinnacles of Pedro Mountain, turns right on the San Pedro Road, proceeds until the majestic San Pedro rocks are sighted. Down a quaint little thoroughfare one drives to a fine little beach tucked in at the base of the towering rocks in a gentle crescent shape.

SAFE BATHING
Bathing without fear of treacherous undertows may be enjoyed at the cove. Life lines are extended into the surf for timid persons and a nice sandy beach is ideal for sun bathing.

Fishermen can leave their families to picnic at the playgrounds, while they fish for cabezon, sea trout, bass, perch, and salmon.

HISTORIC WINDOW
Shelter Cove Inn is famous for its displays of marine pictures. Behind the bar is an art glass window of the original Lurline. This window was in the Hawaiian building during the 1915 exposition and is an exact reproduction of Captain Matson's brigantine Lurline. Captain Matson built the first Lurline in 1887 and named it after his wife.

VISIT SPRUCE CAMP

Fernleaf Camp, No. 808, W. O. W., has made plans to pay a return visit to Spruce Camp of Alameda, Wednesday evening of next week. They will participate in a game of horseshoes and the festivities of the social hour.

San Francisco's World Fair in 1939 will use "black light" for highlighting exhibit murals. "Black light" is that light on the other side of ultraviolet and is invisible to the naked eye.

Three Killed In S. California Plane Crash

A pilot and two passengers were killed and lives of residents imperiled when an old-type biplane crashed recently near San Marino, Cal. The victims were Fred Lobb, 29, of Pasadena; Frank Bannister, 30, of Monterey Park, and E. M. Patrick, 23, of Alhambra. The crash came shortly after they had taken off from Alhambra Airport on a joy ride. Photo shows wreckage resulting from the spectacular plunge.

Drive For County Office Building

County officials and Democratic leaders this week staged a last intensive move to secure action on the application for federal funds for the proposed $200,000 county office building.

During the past few days telegrams have been sent by the Board of Supervisors and prominent citizens to Washington, D. C., in behalf of the project.

Senators and congressmen were urged to use their influence to secure speedy action on the county application for a 45 per cent grant for the building.

The county already has raised $50,000 for the building and has made provision for another $50,000 during the 1937-38 fiscal year. It was announced that if no federal funds are available, another $50,000 will be raised by the county and construction of a building started as soon as possible.

Open Super Service On Bayshore Hiway

Harry N. Jack, who for the past fifteen years has made a distinct success of the service station business in Sacramento Valley, will open one of the largest and best equipped super service stations in the bay area on the Bayshore Highway across from Brisbane, the first of next week.

With 500 foot frontage the modern $20,000 plant includes five gas pumps, a 50 foot indoor pit for lubrication and repair service, office and show room space for tires and accessories, a recreation room with hot and cold showers for truck drivers, comfortable lunch room and rest rooms.

J. H. McFarland is the contractor who supervised construction of the station.

Gail N. Jack, son of Mr. Jack, is joint proprietor and manager. He is an active member of the 20-30 Club.

Find Employment For 12,639 Here

During the past four years since its inception, the National Re-employment Service of San Mateo County found employment for 12,639 persons on federal, private and public work projects.

This was revealed in the report for the period this week by the acting manager for the county and his advisory council.

The placements represent more than two-thirds of the 18,799 new applications received. The report shows that 5556 persons were placed in private employment; 1004 to the CWA, which closed in April, 1934; 1346 to the WPA, which now makes its own assignments, and 4733 to public work programs.

STREET LIGHT HEARING IS SET FOR BRISBANE

Proposal Calls For Spotting Of 50 Lamps Throughout Entire Tract

Bearing the names of more than 50 residents, a petition to establish street lighting district in Brisbane was considered by the Board of Supervisors, Wednesday of this week.

July 14 was set by the board as date for a hearing on the street lighting proposal.

Brisbane merchants, organizations and citizens are sponsoring the improvement program. A tentative plan calls for the spotting of lamps throughout the entire tract.

VV IMPROVEMENT CLUB HOLD MEETING MONDAY EVENING

Organization Spends Period In Discussion Of Local Problems

Members of the Visitation Valley Improvement Club held their regular meeting, Monday evening this week, at the W. O. W. Hall with President George Allen, in charge. The entire meeting was held open for a discussion of community problems. The regular educational feature was not presented.

Reports revealed that progress being made on streets and sidewalks the Motor-Port project brought to the Valley by the Motor-Ports, Inc. will be under actual construction within 30 days; Visitation Valley was well represented and honored at the John McLaren Day program; a site for the McLaren Park playground must be chosen at once; the Market Street Railway will do nothing about improving car service at present; street lighting will be taken care of immediately; delegates to the South-

MELBA WARREN TO REPRESENT THIS COUNTY

Judged On Horsemanship—Outdoor Appearance—Personality

Melba Warren, 16, 479 Niantic avenue, junior at Jefferson Union High School, has been selected to represent San Mateo County at the Salinas Rodeo, July 14 and 15.

Salinas Rodeo is an annual event to which each county sends a representative to compete for the title "Outdoor Girl." The young ladies who represent the counties are chosen by preliminary contests staged throughout high schools of the state.

The contest at Jefferson high was entered by five attractive girls. They were Melba Warren, the winner; Winola Ford, Edith Shiffman, Edna Price and Marian Rich.

The girl who places first in the Salinas Rodeo contest will receive a trip to Mexico City with all expenses paid.

Beneficial Showers Fall In Bay Area

Rain showers which the county agricultural commissioner described as "distinctly beneficial" fell in Mateo County this week as the entire bay region was drenched in seasonably heavy downpours.

The storm extended from the Oregon line to the bay region on the coast, but did not reach the interior of California.

Only good was done to San Mateo County vegetable crops by the rain damage being reported.

DRAMA DEPICTS IMAGINATION IN CRIMINAL GROUP

"Blind Alley" Huge Success In Los Angeles And Hollywood

That crooks have a low mentality has long been the premise of students of criminology, but that they also have active imaginations is the basis of the play, "Blind Alley," now at the Alcazar Theater.

In this thrilling drama, by James Warwick, the mind of a fugitive killer is so stimulated by the clever psycho-analysis of a college professor, in whose home the killer and his moll take refuge, that the crook is brought to a justice of his own devising.

ENTERTAINING

"Blind Alley" is deeply entertaining and holds its audiences, as its success in Los Angeles and Hollywood attests. The comedy arising from the difference in the language of the crook and the professor, the remarks of the small son of the household and the Irish scullion keep the drama from too realistic an interpretation.

Improvement Club Has July Features

George Allen, president of the Visitation Valley Improvement Club, announces two special features for July meetings.

At one of the meetings, Marshall Hale, of Hale Brothers, will be the guest speaker. The other meeting will be given over to the Central Council of Civic Clubs in a Central Council night program. Officers and members will be the guests of the Visitation Valley group.

WPA Will Conduct Language Classes

Forty foreign language classes which are free to adults will be conducted during the summer months by the Works Progress Administration Education Program of the State Department of Education. Seven different tongues, including French, Spanish, Danish, German, Italian, Russian and Latin, will be taught by instructors professionally skilled in teaching these languages by methods easily assimilated by students.

These classes will be held in various centers throughout the city and information concerning time and place of lessons can be obtained from the office of the program, 216 Market street, Douglas 7119.

Cochrane's Outlook on Baseball Proves Tragic Observation

IT HAD been a good interview. We had talked about the pennant race being between the Yankees and the Tigers, two teams very much alike in that sheer power is their reliance rather than pitching cunning. Cleveland, we had decided, was good but not quite good enough because the Indians never had the extra zip which wins games that are needed most. From there the talk turned to the luck which makes or breaks pennant contenders.

"We had it for years," Mickey Cochrane said, "and we won two flags. Last year we didn't have it and we lost. This year—well, we've had a lot of hard luck but we've stuck close. Who knows?" He paused and rapped carefully on the wooden floor of the dugout.

"Who knows," he repeated. "I feel better'n I have for four or five years. It looks like Rowe is ready to go for us and things are shaping up. But—" He paused again. "Well, anything can happen in baseball."

That was two or three minutes before game time. In the fifth inning Bump Hadley threw a fast ball. Cochrane stepped back. It was not a bean ball, should not have hit him. But when you have been in baseball a long while and have other things on your mind you become careless. The ball struck him on the right temple.

Almost immediately old-timers in the press box were heading towards the clubhouse.

There was no need to watch Cochrane lay there on his side for a moment and then wilt over on his back. The thud of the ball against flesh, a dull, flat sound. The way the ball dropped to the ground instead of rebounding was enough. You knew something serious had happened. You knew that everybody in the stands realized that Mickey might not ever have a bat on his shoulder again.

Things such as that happen in baseball as in all sports. While you wait for X-rays and hope this one will not be serious you—if you have been covering games for long—think about other ones.

There was that Polo Grounds afternoon seventeen years ago when Carl Mays threw his baffling underhand fast ball and Ray Chapman, great Cleveland shortstop, was mowed. There was the afternoon in St. Louis when you heard that sickening thud again and saw Burt Grimes standing on the mound while Mel Ott lay silently beside the plate, lucky to be out only for the rest of the season.

Back through the years there are other memories of such moments. Merwin Jacobson ducking into two fast pitches during two years with Jack Dunn's famous pennant-winning Orioles. His life despaired of each time.

Chick Fewster, grinning as he stepped to the plate against big Jeff Pfeffer in a Yankee-Dodger training season game. Fewster still around town now, a silver plate in his skull as a memento of the fast ball that struck him down scant seconds later. Roy Cohan, White Sox shortstop, being let off the field, babbling to himself, never to be a real player again after being hit by Russ Ford's high arc one at the Old Hilltop grounds.

Mickey's Mishap Recalls Accident to Earl Combs

Little Pete Walls, a jockey playing in a pickup game against the racing writers at Saratoga last August. Earl Combs running into the fence in St. Louis. Roettger knocked unconscious by a ball that rebounded from the fence in a Brooklyn-Boston contest.

Accidents, all of them. Yet—Well, somehow it is hard to get used to the scene. Even memories of moments when comedy has followed quick upon what might have been disaster does not really help.

There have been such moments. For instance the day when Larry Doyle was skulled at the Polo Grounds. The crowd scarcely dared breathe while Larry sprawled beside home plate. Then some one brought a glass of water, lifted the great second baseman's head. Larry drank the water, arose, rubbed his head, grinned a white grin and stumbled down to first base.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

ST. LOUIS gossipers insist Mrs. Dizzy Dean now speaks to only three of the wives of her husband's teammates. . . . Eddie Arcaro, the jockey, is an amateur moving picture photographer. . . . Charley Cook, the fight manager, goes fishing once a week both winter and summer. . . . Metropolitan popularity prizes for the links legion (that means golf) still go to Johnny Farrell, Ray Billows and Jimmy Hines of the male squad, while Joan Runyon leads the ladies.

Now that we've given their plagued Australian barrier a trial, the Aussies are going to take a look at our stall box system of starting. . . . Have you noted that neither War Admiral nor Pommern wear blinkers? Two game and honest thoroughbreds who don't sulk without headgear or "the rogues' badge," as horsemen picturesquely call it. . . . Narragansett park runs a riding academy for apprentice jockeys. . . . Governor Allred is so dead set against racing that Texas has spent $200,000 for special legislative sessions designed to wipe out the betting laws.

Leo Durocher says only one top-ranking National league pitcher fails to dust him off a couple of times when he comes to the plate. That's Carl Hubbell. . . . Al Schacht, the baseball comedian, is considering a three-year movie contract. George Burns, the old Giant outfielder, conducts a poolroom in Gloversville.

The A. A. U. might be interested to learn that three of the world's greatest milers will live in New York within a year. Archie San Romani will work there after he graduates in June. Don Lash will do the same when he gets his diploma next February. Big Glenn Cunningham, of course, already is there and definitely plans to keep active on the track. . . . Baseball players in England are paid off after every game, getting a pound for their labors. Last year playing salaries ranged from $10 to $50 a week and 4,000 spectators was a high average attendance at a game.

Frankie Frisch's newest gag is that Umpire Barr, who runs an umpiring school, should go to one.

Zach Taylor, heaved out by the Dodger front office along with Casey Stengel last fall, is doing a swell job as manager of the Browns' San Antonio farm club. . . . Until they saw pictures of their fracas, the Cards thought Mel Ott was the lad who socked young Don Gutteridge. Now they're talking about getting even with Adolf Luque. Only talking, though. People don't really make passes at old Adolf unless they're bored with the minor risks of monkeying with buzz saws.

Fritz Crisler picks Harvard as the team to beat in the Big Three next fall. Also, possibly just to show that he is a very pessimistic and surprising gent, the Princeton football coach says his own Tigers will lose four games. . . . Another eminent gridiron authority (not Crisler) claims that as long as the present plan of line coaching is continued Yale will never have a truly great eleven. Says only the sheer brilliancy of fellows like Frank and Kelley has kept the Bulldog's teeth sharp.

Frankie Blair, the Camden welterweight, whose right name is Frank Tenerelli, never fought as an amateur. Eddie Walker, who now manages him, bought his contract several months ago for $100 (borrowed from Jimmy Kelly). Since then Blair has had six fights at better than $500 each.

War Admiral is the 105th horse to have won more than $100,000 in purses while racing in the U. S. . . . Paul Gallico, the former sports journalist who now does magazine pieces, joins the International News Service as a featured correspondent soon—Dr. Oswald Lowsley, now an eminent surgeon at the New York hospital, was one of the nation's greatest swimmers when he attended Johns Hopkins almost twenty-five years ago.

National league players insist Dizzy Dean has been applying licorice to the ball to make it do funny tricks this year. Doc Danforth was the last pitcher to use that stunt effectively and they caught up with him many seasons ago—Horace Stoneham calls Jersey City's new Roosevelt stadium the best reserved-seat park in the country. You have to do no more than whisper that a big game is due before the customers line up for the preferred seats.

Although phony favorites continue to prevail, fewer counterfeit bank notes have appeared at metropolitan racetracks this season than at any time within recent years—Terry Moore, Cards' outfielder, is an accomplished painter in oils—Unless these old eyes deceive me there's a fighter performing around St. Louis with the intriguing monicker of Benny Deathpaine—Here's a mark which various Dodgers can aim at: Eustace Newton, who pitched for the Cincinnati Reds, appeared in thirty-three games in 1900, and made 17 errors.

Until his first charley horse forced him out of the lineup recently Charley Gehringer had been missing from the Tigers' battle front only twice in the last six years, losing a day once through an automobile accident and missing another game when struck on the leg by a thrown ball.

Keeping Up With Science By Science Service

Televised Pictures Can Be Produced for the Home User

Method Worked Out by Radio Engineers

New York.—A scientific idea that figuratively almost went into the wastebasket because it seemed too difficult to work out has now produced bright, clear television images of such size that they appear to meet the potential requirements of home users.

At the meeting here of the Institute of Radio Engineers, scientists of the Radio Corporation of America demonstrated televised pictures, 18 by 24 inches in size, that compare favorably with home motion pictures in brightness and detail.

This area of viewing screen may reasonably be supposed to represent the television set owners' wishes for size, since it is probable that future commercially-available sets will be about as large as the larger radios today. A few people may wish to devote the whole side of a room to a television screen but the feeling is that a picture about two feet square, visible across an ordinary living room, will meet the greatest demand.

New Projection Tube.

Dr. V. K. Zworykin, W. H. Painter and Dr. R. R. Law described the new type projection tube which makes possible the bright images in "living room" size. Idea behind the work is that a controlled stream of electrons strikes a fluorescent screen and by bombardment makes the screen shine so brightly that an ordinary optical system can enlarge the image to its 18 by 24 inch size.

These flying electrons, which ultimately form the television picture, have to pass through four "gates" before striking the fluorescent screen.

Through Small Hole.

Through the first three the electrons are packed into a pencil of rays about the size of a real lead-pencil. But in going through the last "gate" they must pass through a hole too small in size to allow the passage of a human hair. Getting these electrons through this tiny opening without loss and obtaining something on the opposite side was one of the "kinks" in the original idea that almost led to its abandonment before being tried.

The television engineers are now continuing their work ironing out one hampering factor in their development; that the bright, clear image can only be obtained with special laboratory equipment.

Syrup of Raspberry and Cacao Best Flavoring Agents

Chicago.—To kill or disguise an unpleasant taste, doctors find syrup of cacao (chocolate to you) and syrup of raspberry the best flavoring agents. Almost everyone likes these flavors.

Second in popular choice are the syrups of orange, cherry, sarsaparilla and citric acid.

Tasting tests have been carried on by Harold N. Wright, a pharmacist, among students in the medical, dental and nursing schools of the University of Minnesota.

The flavoring agents commonly employed in medicine were judged in the experiment according to (1) the popularity of their appeal, (2) their efficiency in disguising the bitter taste of certain drugs, (3) their effectiveness in covering the salty taste of other drugs, and (4) their effectiveness in disguising the unpleasant taste of tincture of digitalis.

Bitter drugs are best concealed, Mr. Wright found, by syrups of raspberry, eriodictyon and prepared cacao. Salty drugs are best disguised by syrups of cinnamon, orange and sarsaparilla.

Trick by Which High Fever Is Brought On

St. Louis.—By just wrapping a piece of dry cloth about the bulb of a clinical thermometer and blowing hard upon it, a patient can manufacture evidence that he has a startlingly high fever.

Dr. Ona K. DeFoe has discovered this new trick that doctors must be alert for when encountering unusually high temperatures in their practice of medicine.

CALIFORNIA News of the Week

Building and Loan Elect

Yosemite National Park.—William E. Bouton of San Francisco is the new president of the California Building Loan League. Others officers elected at the annual convention are: G. Vander Ende of Berkeley, vice president; Horace E. Wilson of Los Angeles, executive committee.

Tent Show Burns

Fort Bragg.—Flames recently destroyed the three-top tent of the Harry Jennings Porter traveling dramatic show, pitched on a vacant lot next to the city fire department house here. The loss, including scenery and the troupe's costumes and personal baggage, was estimated by the owner at $5,000. Firemen attributed the blaze to defective electric wiring.

Heat Halts Work

Los Angeles.—Checking off 221 miles of completed main line aqueduct to their credit, Metropolitan Aqueduct workmen suspended "open work" concerting operations for the summer months on the desert sections of the giant waterway. Temperatures that are rising above the 100-deg. mark make it necessary to defer the balance of this type of work until next fall.

Flags For Polling Places

Sacramento.—The placing of flags atop polling places signifying that precinct had the largest percentage of votes in the last preceding election has received the legal approval of Attorney General U. S. Webb. Webb said the plan, being sponsored by the San Diego Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution for the purpose of encouraging voting, is in violation of no existing statutes.

Trailer Industry

At least 357 manufacturers were making automobile trailers of one sort or another last year, and the largest number of trailer manufacturers, 86 in all, were located in California. Total trailer production for 1936, according to the first census of this budding industry, amounted to 53,646 units, worth $27,421,763 at the factory gate. The bulk of trailers made were house trailers—16,173 worth $525 apiece, according to Business Week. Although California has the largest number of trailer manufacturers, Michigan, with 58 concerns, sold the largest number of units. The Michigan output was valued at $14,200,000.

Millions Cross Bay Span

San Francisco.—The 5,000,000th car to cross the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge made the crossing May 31, it was announced by Earl Lee Kelly, State Director of Public Works. This shows that the public is using the bridge at the rate of 10,000,000 crossings a year, Kelly added. The total traffic for the first 5½ months of operations on the bridge was 5,007,027. May travel was the greatest during any month of the bridge's operation, with a total of 896,027 vehicles, as compared with 766,790 in April. Opening of the Golden Gate Bridge stimulated, rather than slowed, traffic on the Bay Bridge, the figures show. By days, the traffic was: Friday, May 28, 32,640; Saturday, 40,661; Sunday, 52,160; Monday, 41,231. This compares with a daily average during the month of 28,904. The income of the bridge for May was $469,240.

State Relief Funds

Sacramento.—California's relief administration will leave a heritage of $200,000 to its successor when it ceases to exist July 1, State Relief Administrator Harold E. Pomeroy predicted recently. He said his department, whose duties will be taken over by the Social Welfare Department June 30, will finish its fiscal year with a $200,000 surplus from its $26,000,000 budget. "It may even amount to $300,000," Pomeroy said. The surplus will result from unexpected reductions in the State's relief rolls during the past three months. Pomeroy said: "The first of March, the State was giving relief to 71,000 cases. Today there are only 33,600 cases receiving such aid. That reduction was possible by continuation of WPA projects, and unprecedented absorption of relief clients by private industry. All types of employers responded in the most gratifying manner to our pleas that they afford work to persons receiving relief." Pomeroy predicted the State would establish a "little CCC" for single, indigent men. Its establishment would be based on the successful operation of work camps maintained by the relief administration during the past year.

De Molay Head

Marysville.—The Sacramento Valley Division of the Associated De Molay Chapters of Superior California and Nevada elected H. Rodney Uren of Oroville master counselor at the convention here recently.

Forester Moves

Porterville.—Claude K. Barker, assistant supervisor of the Sequoia National Forest since 1933, announced he is leaving to take a similar post on the force at the San Bernardino National Forest.

Clothes That Look the Part

NOW, Milady, that you've seen all three, which will you choose, the lovely dance frock, an easy-to-sew runabout model, or a slick all around the clock dress to flatter your every move and moment? It's a personal question but one you'll surely want to toy with since Sew-Your-Own makes the answer so easy.

Any Time After 8:30.

The romantic fashion at the left will make memorable occasions of your summer parties as only a lovely appearance can. Its two pieces are young, cool and streamlined. For the Miss whose interest centers about matinee goings-on, there's a dashing shorter style—it differs only in length, and either will be picturesque in marquise, dimity, or organdie.

A Tip for Tea Time.

When you're keeping up with the Joneses, wear this stylish all occasion dress. It will do great things for you socially, and, figuratively speaking, it will cut inches from those high spots and make you feel pounds lighter. Think of what that means to chic and comfort when things get hot out your way. Dark sheer crepe is the material that lends top charm to this creation.

Fore and Aft.

Easy to sew and always ready to go is this new spectator frock for young women and those who want to turn back the clock. With this number handy there's no need to pause for reflection about what to wear. And that holds good whether you're bound for sports, business, or society. It is becoming as a sun tan, as simple to sew as a dress can be, and a cinch to launder. Why not make a carbon copy for the morning after? Remember summer chic depends upon the company your wardrobe keeps. Be sure it's amply supplied with cool convenient Sew-Your-Owns!

The Patterns.

Pattern 1291 is designed in sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 6 yards of 35 or 39 inch material. Size 14, walking length, requires 5½ yards.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

POINT SAN PEDRO ROCKAWAY BEACH

The Pedro Improvement Association met at Harry Reese's tavern last Friday night, at the request of the chairman, Karl Strutz. A number of matters came up for discussion, among them that of a change of name for the village, which has been a moot question for some time past, owing to the project to establish a post office at the Stanley Blum place. The decision was made to call the town Pedro Valley. Officers elected at the meeting included: Harry Rees, president; William Beeler, vice president; Art Remmer, treasurer; Karl Strutz, chairman; Mrs. Hector Martin, secretary, and George Olmo, fire-marshall. Irene Rees was appointed to look into the matter of the school bus and its time schedules. The president and vice president were considering contact with the supervisors in the interest of Pedro road improvement. A vote of thanks was given to James Roddy for his efforts in bettering the water service. The subject of garbage disposal was discussed and tabled for further data. It was voted that a fee of twenty-five cents be paid at each meeting into the treasury of the association by each family attending. July 9 was the date chosen for the next meeting.

Thirty were present at the meeting.

A fine, large salmon was caught on Sunday. It was one of the first of the season. Grace Danmann sent it to her sister in San Jose.

Mrs. Nora P. Christen entertained eight members of her Breakfast Club at her summer home in Pedro Valley. The guests drove down from San Francisco, reaching the Christen place at eleven a. m. and remaining until the afternoon. Among those present were Mesdames Kitty O'Neill, Dewey Richardson, Annie Cuff, Ila Ertell, Nell Ryan, Marie William, Nora Christen. The Breakfast Club, which was formed over a year ago, is composed of a group of congenial ladies, who meet for breakfast at each other's homes in the city. Mrs. Christen decided to give them the novelty of a breakfast and a day in the country. A recent event was the entertainment of sixteen guests at a barbecue in the Christen house at Pedro, which aroused much interest.

Ted Bailey and his bride have rented the Eddy house at Rockaway Beach where they are now living.

The carrier pigeons, released by photographer Hermann Bryant of the San Francisco News, from the public school yard at Rockaway, reached their loft on the News building in sixteen minutes. The sun was partly obscured by foggy clouds, but, after circling for a few moments to find their bearings, the birds made a straight flight to the city.

Mrs. Bailey, of Rockaway, drove over to Pedro for the meeting last Friday night. George Olmo is busy burning off the poison oak from his lots. Leo Harris is installing some artistic lights in the new Rees place. The Clyde Garners are making a garden and clearing the weeds out of their back lots. The "caterpillar"

NEWS FLASHES From SHARP PARK

Recent graduation exercises at the San Pedro School aroused much community interest. Although only six students received their diplomas this year the commencement was distinctly successful, according to parents and teachers.

Children of the lower grades presented a play, "School Days," and the upper grades enacted a colonial play. Miss Miguel, Miss Smith, Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Marie Birkhofer directed the plays. James Ferguson, principal of the Jefferson Union High School, was guest speaker on the program. Dick Plate presented the certificates of graduation and Mrs. Essa Hoetzel, representing the San Pedro P. T. A., awarded class pins to each graduate.

Charles Wilkinson and his Hawaiian orchestra furnished music for dancing, following the exercises. Those graduated by the San Pedro School include Ann Plate, Rosalie Svorinic, Lorraine Anderson, Alice Bistolfi, Armando Vernoldi and Dick Moore.

Georgie Paolozzo of Sharp Park was rushed to the Villa Hospital, Thursday of this week, for observation.

tion. A sudden attack of illness made necessary the calling of an ambulance.

Richard Moore and T. A. Svorinic will leave for a fishing trip to China Camp, Monday of next week.

Two new families have recently established residence in Sharp Park, in the Barsotti house. They are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Alson.

Billy Moore, Tommy Svorinic, Jim Hawthorne and Richard Moore enjoyed a roller skating party, Thursday evening of this week, at the Peninsula Beach Rink.

Jim Rovegno, butcher at the Brighton Market, and Miss Violet Vagnoli enjoyed a motor trip down the coast, Sunday of this week. They visited Mount View.

Young ladies of the 1937 graduating class of San Pedro School enjoyed a luncheon and theater party in San Francisco, Friday evening of last week. Those attending the affair were Ann Plate, Rosalie Svorinic, Lorraine Anderson and Alice Bistolfi. One of their teachers acted as chaperone.

Tommy Svorinic's new hat has caused quite a heyday among the local wits. This is his first hat and it is being practically razed off his head.

HOT WATER

at any hour... day or night

THIS is no time to neglect thrift. It is no time to waste money. You do neither when you heat water by means of an Automatic Gas Water Heater. After all, it is just plain arithmetic, being proved in thousands of California homes, that you spend to save when you have an Automatic installed in your home. Consider this: If you are using a water heater that has to be lighted with a match, and you also resort to a tea kettle of hot water, every gallon so heated costs twice as much as it would if hot water were always on tap from the insulated tank of an Automatic.

You should also investigate this form of saving in your home. You should take advantage of the low prices of these truly modern Automatic Water Heaters. Prices have never been so low, and right now special easy-to-purchase terms are in effect.

See a representative of this company today or consult your local gas appliance dealer. An Automatic can be purchased for as little as Three Dollars a Month. Act now on this thrift-wise suggestion.

SHEER WASTE OF $20,000 PUBLIC MONEY

Proposition No. 1

Shall the proposed Charter Amendments to the San Mateo County Charter as petitioned therefor making elective the appointive positions of County Executive, Coroner, Engineer, Recorder, Tax Collector and Treasurer, etc. be adopted?

YES
NO	X

Proposition No. 2

Shall the proposed alternative providing for the appointment of County Executive by the Board of Supervisors be adopted?

YES	X
NO

To Voters and Tax Payers

A special election has been called for Tuesday, June 22, on the proposal to make elective the following County Officers now appointive under the Charter:

County Executive	Coroner
Tax Collector	Treasurer
Engineer	Recorder

The Civic League opposed calling this election because we believe that the cost of the election is SHEER WASTE. The County Clerk estimates the cost at over $20,000.00. The taxpayers will pay approximately $2.00 for every thousand dollars of assessed valuation for this special election.

WHY IT IS WASTE

BECAUSE:—(a) Even if Proposition No. 1 carries, there can be no change in the County Government until the Legislature ratifies the Amendment. THE NEXT SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE WILL BE HELD IN 1939. Thus no office could be filled by regular election until 1942. Decision of the questions to be voted on, June 22, could have been delayed until the November 1938 General Election, at no additional cost.

(b) Even if carried and ratified, you may be put to the expense of another special primary election, followed by another special election—depending on the judgment of the Courts. The cost will admittedly be more than the amount spent on this June 22 election—more than $2.00 ADDITIONAL on each $1000 on your assessment.

ADOPTION OF CHARTER

The Charter was adopted by the voters November 8, 1932, by a vote of 16,541 to 8592. We believe that it has never had a fair chance.

QUALIFICATIONS OF EXECUTIVE

The Charter now states plainly that the County Executive shall be a person of demonstrated ability, having had experience in responsible important executive capacity and shall be selected and appointed solely on the basis of executive and administrative qualification.

The only qualification proposed by Proposition 1 is that the Executive shall be a legal resident of San Mateo County. It is evidently not considered necessary that he shall have any ability, except as a vote-getter.

Citizens at the last general election voiced their dissatisfaction with the old regime by voting out the former majority bloc of the Board of Supervisors, and by replacing them with men in whom they have reposed confidence and trust. The present Supervisors should have a reasonable period of time in which to bring order out of the chaos, that existed prior to January 7, 1937. What we believe to be an honest, intelligent and capable effort is being made by the present Board to give San Mateo County a respectable business administration. We believe that the Board and the County Executive can demonstrate that the Charter is a workable document, until such time as actual experience in capable hands indicates necessity for amending it. At least it merits a fair trial.

Please bear in mind that the operation of the County's affairs is business, pure and simple. County business should not be made a political football.

COULD BE INTELLIGENTLY AMENDED

The object of the Civic League, as stated in its Articles of Association, is: "To foster and promote by all lawful means the Civic Interests and Well-Being of the People of San Mateo County."

As President of the Civic League, and as a voter and taxpayer, it is my firm conviction that the Charter may need some reasonable and intelligent revising through Amendments thereto.

This should be done in an orderly, calm and inexpensive manner by an impartial and intelligent study group, and then placed before the electorate at a regular election.

Piecemeal tinkering does not deserve support for the reasons stated thus far.

What this county needs is more facts and less hap-hazard opinions—more light and less heat.

I am going to vote "NO" on Proposition No. 1, and "YES" on Proposition No. 2.

After considering this, you do what you think best for the welfare of the County, and the resultant savings in dollars and cents to you.

Respectfully yours,
MATTHEW A. HARRIS,
President Civic League of San Mateo County.

WITH BANNERS

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Reyburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwittingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, a nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure on the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the radio, had invited her to call and developed a deep affection for her.

"It's a fairy story brought up to date. Only, for the spell of a witch, substitute the broadcast of a girl's voice. The little schemer got not only the money but Mary Amanda's jewels, many of which were my grandmother's."

Brooke dropped her hands from her ears after what seemed hours. Still talking? Perhaps Jed Stewart was talking to the office boy. She heard him say:

"Your aunt said in her will, remember, that if she left the jewels to you, you might—well, that Miss Reyburn would appreciate them. She related toward you to the extent of naming you legatee should the girl die without children; she was canny enough to prevent her fortune from falling into the hands of her family. You wouldn't think Brooke Reyburn a schemer if you saw her; you'd know that she had a background of cultivated living. She has a vivid face with a deep dimple at one corner of her lovely mouth; her voice is sweet, spiced with daring. She came out of college to carry her whole darn family when her father died—he was one of the tragic twenty-niners whose investments were wiped out—now, I suppose, her brother, who is acting in a stock company, and her sister will chuck their jobs and settle down on her. Her hair is like copper with the sun on it; her eyes change from brown to amber, and when she smiles at me I feel as cocky as a drum major at the head of a regiment."

"Help! You're raving, Jed. Perhaps you're thinking of marrying her?"

"Marry her yourself, Mark, and keep the fortune in the family."

"I marry that girl who hypnotized an old woman into leaving her a fortune! You're crazy. Besides, I am married."

"You haven't caught your aunt's ideas on divorce, have you? You don't feel tied to that woman who ran away with that French count, do you? You divorced her, didn't you? You—"

"Hold everything! We were talking of the Reyburn girl. You have nerve to make the suggestion that I marry her. Men have been put on the spot for less. I wouldn't marry that schemer if—"

Brooke flung back the hanging in a passion of rage.

"Nobody asked you to!" She cleared her voice of hoarseness, and flamed:

"Has it never occurred to you, Mark Trent—" She stopped, her eyes wide with amazement. Was this really the man who had pulled her from in front of that speeding car? After the first flash there was no recognition in his eyes, nor any concern, rather a quiet mockery, which, she felt, at the first word of hers would turn into active dislike.

"You! You—" Her breath caught in a laugh that was half sob. "What a mean break for you that you didn't know who I was, that you didn't let that car hit me! Then you would have had the money."

She had never seen a face so colorless as Mark Trent's as his eyes met hers steadily.

"Lucky I didn't know who you were, wasn't it? I might have been tempted. Schemers somehow lead charmed lives."

For a split second Brooke thought that fury had paralyzed her tongue. She made two attempts to speak before she protested angrily:

"I'm not a schemer! I suppose it never has occurred to you that the 'Reyburn girl' may have loved Mary Amanda Dane? May have been glad to spend one evening a week in a homey old house away from her whole 'darn family' in a crowded city apartment?"

Failure of breath alone stopped Brooke's tirade. There was plenty more she could say, she was apt to be good when she started. A laugh twitched at her lips. The two men facing her couldn't have looked more stunned when she made her theatrical entrance had a hold-up man with leveled gun suddenly stepped from behind the hanging. So this was Mark Trent. She had been careful never to go to Lookout House when he was there, for fear that he might think she had planned to meet him. She had not realized that he would be so bronzed nor so tall, that his dark eyes were so uncompromising, nor that the set of his mouth and chin could be so indomitable. There was a fiery strong quality of life in him which sent prickles of excitement like red-hot slivers shooting through her veins. She knew now that she should have appeared from behind that hanging at Jed Stewart's first word. Stewart's always ruddy face was the color of a fully grown beet. He coughed apologetically.

"Sorry, Miss Reyburn. Didn't know you'd come. I'll slit the throat of that secretary of mine for not telling me. So you two have met before? That's a coincidence."

"No coincidence about it, Jed. Apparently we were both on the way to this office to keep an appointment with you, when we 'met' in the street almost in front of this building."

Brooke's anger flared again at Mark Trent's cool explanation. She met the terrier brightness of Jed Stewart's gray-green eyes. She had liked him when she had come to his office in response to the court's amazing notification that she was residuary legatee under the will of Mary Amanda Dane. The black and white check of his suit accentuated the rotundity of his body. He puffed out his lips as he regarded her with boyish entreaty. She laughed.

"The present uncomfortable situation only goes to prove, doesn't it, Mr. Stewart, that listeners never hear any good of themselves? Though really I wasn't listening. I stepped behind the hanging to look at the marvelous view, and then—"

"You heard Jed say that your hair was like copper with the sun on it, and—"

"I stuffed my fingers in my ears for a while, but I heard a lot more, a whole lot more," Brooke cut in on Mark Trent's sarcastic reminder, "before I heard you refuse to marry me."

"But that was before I had seen you." The suavity of his voice brought hot tears of fury to her eyes. Before she could rally a caustic retort, he picked up his hat.

"That's a bully exit line. I'll be seeing you, Jed. Hope you'll enjoy the house and the fortune, Miss Reyburn. Happy landings!" He laughed.

"I'd better say, 'Safe landings!' You're such a reckless person."

"Hi! Fella!"

With an impatient jerk, Mark Trent shook off the hand on his sleeve, rammed his soft hat over one eye, and closed the door smartly behind him. Stewart relieved his feelings in an explosive sigh and pulled forward a chair.

"That seems to be that. Sit down, Miss Reyburn, while I tell you about the allowance which will be made you while Mrs. Dane's estate is being settled."

CHAPTER II

From the lighted stage Brooke Reyburn looked into the auditorium of the department store in which she had worked for four years. She had begun by modeling sports clothes, and because she had loved her work and had given it all the enthusiasm and drive there was in her she had been promoted steadily. The first of this last year she had been made head fashion adviser and had been set to Paris. She had made frequent trips to New York, but never before had she been abroad. Now she was talking for the last time to a hall full of women, many of whom she had come to know by sight. She had given her last radio talk. It was the end of her business career.

As she stepped from the stage, Mme. Celeste, the autocratic head of the store's department of clothes for women, stopped her. A hint of emotion warmed the hard blue of her eyes as she caught Brooke's hands.

"Cherie," her French was slightly denatured by a down-east twang, "I shall lose my right hand when you go. Why did that meddlesome old party want to butt in and leave you money? You were on the way to making it her."

"I shall miss you, Mme. Celeste," Brooke's voice was none too steady. "Perhaps you won't have to long. In this here-today-and-gone-tomorrow age, money doesn't stay in one pocket. Remember, cherie, whenever you want a job, come to me. You'll be needing one. Au revoir!"

"Cheering thought that I may lose the fortune," Brooke reflected, as she approached her office across the hall. Suddenly the black letters:

on the ground-glass panel of the door jiggled fantastically.

She blinked moisture from her lashes—she hadn't supposed she would feel choky about leaving. She opened the door, closed it quickly behind her, and backed against it as a man slid to his feet from the corner of her desk. His black hair shone like the coat of a sleek well-brushed pony; his dark eyes were quizzically amused as they met hers; his teeth were beautifully white; he was correctly turned out in spic and span business clothes. He was likable, but there was something missing—rather curious that never before had she felt it.

"How's tricks?" he inquired gaily.

"How did you get in here, Jerry Field?"

"Easy as rolling off a log. A taxi, an elevator, a few strides on shanks mare, and here I am."

"I've told you time and again not to come to my office."

"While you were on the job, you said, sweet thing. I've stayed away and all the time the old wolf jealousy gnawed at my heart. I've imagined you here entertaining the male heads of departments and letting them, or stopping them, make love to you."

"You've been seeing too many movies. How you dramatize life. You have been miscast. Instead of being born a rich man's son and spending your days dabbling in paint and the stock market, you should be on the stage. With your flair for good theater, you'd be packing them in. Perhaps Sam can get you a chance in his company. Have you seen the play in which he is acting?" she asked with a quick change from lightness to gravity.

"Yes. Your brother's good."

"But you don't like the play?"

"I can't hand it much."

"Neither can I. It's a dummy with not a breath of life, not a drop of red blood, just clever epigrams and stuffed-shirt characters. I wish Sam hadn't been cast in it."

"Don't worry. It won't last long. What's the next play on the stock list?"

"The Tempest." The apartment rings with, 'Bestir! Bestir! Heigh my hearts! Cheerily, cheerily my hearts!'

"You're not bad yourself, Brooke. Why didn't you take to acting?"

"I ought to be good. We children were raised on dramatics and quotations. It was Father's habit to orate when he was shaving, and we could spout Shakespeare before we could spell. Besides being a publisher, he was a playwright for amateurs, but Sam is ambitious to write for the professional stage; he has one three-act comedy finished, that is, as finished as a play can be until it is put into rehearsal. That is why he is acting, that he may know all there is to know of stage technique. I've had theater enough in my late job. Late! I can't believe that I'm through. Come on, Jerry, before I sob on the shoulder of that display figure. I asked the girls not to come to say good-bye as if I were going away forever. They gave me a grand farewell party last night, and I have perfume, hosiery, and bags enough to last the rest of my natural life. Go ahead. I want to snap out the light myself."

As she stopped on the threshold, Jerry Field caught her arm.

"Hey, no looking back. Remember what happened to Lot's wife. I'd make a hit, wouldn't I, tugging a pillar of salt round the dance floor." He shut the door smartly behind them.

Brooke blinked and swallowed. "Okay, Jerry, from now on I go straight ahead like an army with banners, but straight ahead doesn't mean teeing and dancing with you tonight."

When they reached the already darkening street, Jerry Field demanded:

"Won't you go stepping with me now?"

"No, thanks. I am going home to plan with the family about moving, and to plot the curve of our domestic future."

"Look here, Brooke, don't persist in that silly idea of living in the house Mrs. Dane left you. It's all right for spring and summer, but what will you do marooned on a rocky point of land almost entirely surrounded by water when the days get short, in a place where the residents dig in and nothing ever happens? If you were here in the city," he urged, "I could pick you up in a minute and we could go places. To date you've handed out the excuse that you were too busy. People are planning to winter there, are they? That's an idea. You won't lose the fortune if you don't live in the old place, will you? It wasn't a condition?"

They were walking toward the crimson and jade sunset against which a huge electric clock seemed colorless.

"No. Mrs. Dane merely left a note with her lawyer, in which she wrote that she wished I would live there for two years, or at least until I had cleared the house of her belongings, that she knew that I would not laugh at her treasures, that I would understand, and that I would care for her parrot, Mr. Micawber. That parrot leaves me cold, Jerry. So you see, I must live in the house for a while—now that the lordly Mark Trent has given permission. I—"

"What has Mark Trent to say about it?"

Brooke looked up in surprise as they waited for the traffic light at the corner to change to red and yellow.

"Don't bite. Do you know him, Jerry?"

"Sure, I know him," he replied shortly.

Bedouins Hospitable

Besides being one of the picturesque nomads of the desert, the Bedouin is "most hospitable," says a writer. A Bedouin host thinks it humiliating to ask his guest his name, his destination, or the time of his departure. It is a recognized law of the desert that if a stranger appears at your tent and your sheep are grazing far away, you are entitled, in order to follow the ancient law of hospitality, to steal a neighbor's sheep and to slay it in honor of your guest. This is a sort of borrowing and not literally stealing as the law is observed by all neighbors. Hospitality is not limited to food and drink, but includes affording the guest protection should his life be threatened. If a guest's belongings are stolen, the host will make every effort to have them restored.

restricted use of $300,000 in gasoline tax funds to "spend that money where it would give him the most votes."

3. That the amendment would "be a source of unending litigation and result in the worst and most unworkable form of county government to be found in the State of California."

4. That an "elective executive is a contradiction in terms."

5. That the "idea of charter government is sound and practicable" and that "before the charter, county government, so-called, was not county self government at all, but simply state government of counties," with the county being "governed from Sacramento."

6. That to make the county manager elective "would destroy centralized authority and responsibility."

The board recommended a thorough study of the charter, its workability and possible improvement before any changes be made in it.

The Daly City Welfare Association has gone on record as favoring the proposed current amendment.

A second proposition will appear on the ballot Tuesday which provides that the county executive still be appointed by the Board of Supervisors should the first proposition carry.
